

Bedrock Edition Support

Introduction

We are currently trialling the addition of bedrock client support to the server. This allows Minecraft Bedrock Edition clients, such as phones, tablets and consoles to connect to the RTGame Minecraft Server.

The software required for this is still relatively new and under active development. As a result there are plenty of bugs, but it should be more than sufficient for exploration or participating in a build stream - especially if you don't have Java Edition.

Bedrock Edition support will never be perfect. There are fundamental differences to Java Edition which cannot be worked around. Known issues can be found here.

You will still need an active Twitch subscription or YouTube membership to join the server, for both Java and Bedrock editions
